Our class has been exploring protective services this term.

We discussed what protective services we knew of (Police, Fire and Ambulance), and were lucky enough to join in with the Year 1/2’s visit by Police officers, Kym and Sue, at the beginning of term.

One of our main focuses has been on what to do in an emergency:

- How do we know when we’re in trouble?
- What situations require us to get help?
- How do we get in touch with these protective services?
- What information do they need?

After investigating the Triple Zero website and watching some different triple zero scenarios, some of us were able to have a go at calling ‘triple zero’ (Mrs J and Mrs P) when we were presented with an emergency situation.

The children said:

“I thought our scenarios were funny, but it did teach me a lot about what to say in an emergency”

“I never realised that if you don’t know which service you need (fire, ambulance or police), always ask for the police and they will help you work it out”

“I liked trying to work out what to say while I was on the phone to triple zero”

We enjoyed presenting at assembly (Monday, week 4) our Zero, Zero, Zero song. It is a boppy song which gives children the knowledge of what to do in the case of a fire. Our first port of call is TRIPLE ZERO!

If you’re all alone
And there’s a fire in your home
Get out and grab a phone and
Dial zero, zero, zero

Don’t try to fight
The fire with all your might
‘Cause you’ll set yourself alight
Dial zero, zero, zero

Don’t mess about
‘Cause there’s no time for doubt
Just get yourself out
And dial zero, zero, zero

Watcha gonna do
When it’s all up to you
And you haven’t got a clue
Dial zero, zero, zero
